

Centre for the Study of Women and Gender (CSWG): Call for Abstracts, University of Warwick

The Centre for the Study of Women and Gender at the University of Warwick will host an interdisciplinary Graduate Seminar Series in the academic year 2017/2018. We would like to invite papers from postgraduate students working in, but not limited to the following areas:

Media, Culture and Gender Representations
Work, Employment and the Family
Gender and Education
Politics and Power
(Trans) national Gender
Intersections of Gender, 'Race', Class, Disability and Age
Transgender and Sexualities
Feminism and Women's Rights
Masculinities and Femininities
Feminist Theories and Methodologies
New Media and Digital Technologies
Histories of Feminist Movements, Gender and Sexuality
Gender, the Body and Embodiment Postcolonial debates and Gender

We welcome submissions, both conventional and innovative, from any disciplines on gender related topics. Seminars will take place on three or four afternoons across the Autumn and Spring terms (dates and timings TBC). Attendance is open to everyone.

The seminar series aims to:

- Foster discussions on questions of/around gender
- Provide a safe and comfortable space for students to present their research
- Create an opportunity to fine-tune presentation skills

Abstracts should be:

- Maximum 200 words
- Submitted along with a brief biography of the author (max 100 words); including their institution, department, and research interests. If undertaking empirical research please also provide a brief summary of methodology.
- Submitted by Friday 1st September 2017

Please email abstracts to cswgseminarseries@gmail.com . Abstracts will be peer reviewed. If successful, you will hear from us in the week commencing Monday 18th September 2017 and will be allocated a seminar between October 2017 and March 2018. Funds may also be available to help contribute to travel expenses. If you have any further questions, please do email us at cswgseminarseries@gmail.com
