

Special offer! New limited edition Putney Debates book

Our latest book from the Putney Debates series is now available at a special discounted price to FLJS subscribers!

The Courts and the People: Friend or Foe? is published by Hart in hardback for £48, but we are offering a beautiful, FLJS-branded limited edition exclusively on our website at a special price of just £10.

The book, edited by Prof Denis Galligan, includes contributions from Court of Appeal Judges, legal experts, and political scientists, who discuss the independence of judiciaries around the world.

Find out how to get your discounted copy

Buy Your Reduced Price Copy

Texas abortion law proves constitutional testing ground

As a controversial Texas abortion law faces ongoing legal challenges in the US Supreme Court, Judith Resnick's foresighted policy brief on abortion legislation and the reproduction of constitutional conflict proves insightful reading.

She argues that such rulings demonstrate that judicial review, rather than silencing democratic voices, is in fact a vital part of the process of legislative and civic dialogue.

Read the Policy Brief

Social media and the duty of care to tackle online harm

Following last week's warning from the Facebook whistleblower that the UK and EU must do more to control online harm, media expert Damien Tambini's response to the UK's White Paper on online harm offers some salutary lessons.

He endorses the creation of a new regulatory body, Ofweb, with the power to regulate hate speech, foreign interference in democracy, images of self-harm, and terrorist content online.

Reducing Online Harms through a Differentiated Duty of Care

Read the Recommendations

The Foundation for Law, Justice and Society | 01865 284433 | info@fljs.org | www.fljs.org

STAY CONNECTED

Foundation for Law, Justice and Society | Wolfson College, Linton Road, University of Oxford,
Oxford, Oxon OX2 6UD United Kingdom

Unsubscribe marieselwood@btinternet.com

Update Profile | Constant Contact Data Notice

Sent by info@fljs.org powered by

Try email marketing for free today!