Frontiers of Socio-Legal Studies

Frontiers of Socio-Legal Studies is a blog produced by the Oxford Centre for Socio-Legal Studies for the benefit of the national and international socio-legal community. It aims to prompt debate about new issues and directions for socio-legal studies in its 'Borderlands' section; provide an outlet for discussions about methodology in its 'Methodological Musings' section and 'Talking About Methods' podcasts; and alerts our followers to new socio-legal books in 'A Good Read.'

The Chair's Welcome

As chair of the Socio-Legal Studies Association, it gives me the greatest pleasure to welcome you to the 2022 Annual SLSA Conference hosted by the University of York. We have, as always for the SLSA conference, a full and exciting programme, with over 500 papers, 14 posters, and a range of training and development events. I have no doubt it will also be an engaging, enlightening and enlivening three days whether you are attending in person or online.

As ever, the success of the conference is entirely down to you, the delegates. I extend my thanks to all of you who have travelled to York, or are logging in from wherever you are in the world, to share your socio-legal research and ideas, to network and to give support and feedback to fellow presenters. Given the continued disruption associated with COVID-19, and the challenges that this may have caused you, I am particularly pleased to be able to welcome you to the 2022 SLSA Conference. Having a diverse group of delegates ensures not only excellent discussions in panels and at individual papers, but also the strengthening of our individual and collective international socio-legal research networks.

In addition to extending the usual warm welcome to regular conference attendees, I would particularly like to welcome those attending SLSA Annual Conference for the first time. We have a thriving community of PGR scholars in the socio-legal movement, and here at the conference. I am delighted that we again have a range of specific activities at the Conference aimed particularly at providing networking and support activities for our PGR student and early career members. Our hard-working SLSA PGR representatives, Victoria Adkins and Maddy Millar, have been working closely with the York conference team to ensure that PGR conference attendees have a fantastic conference experience. Please join me in thanking them for their hard work and dedication. Victoria is coming towards the end of her PhD studies, and has decided to step down from her role as PGR rep at the AGM. We will be advertising for a replacement in due course, but any PGR members who are interested in the role can speak to either Victoria or Maddy for more information on the role of PGR rep.

It is with great pleasure that we are hosting our PGR poster competition again this year. Posters are submitted by scholars at all career stages, because they offer an excellent opportunity to present academic work in visually engaging ways, and to distil arguments into concise and accessible forms, as well as to network in more flexible ways than is possible through a short oral presentation. Posters will be on display throughout the conference in the Ron Cooke Hub atrium, and the winner of the best poster by a postgraduate student competition will be announced during the Gala Dinner on Thursday evening.

Please also take some time to browse the publisher's stands and speak to the publishers representatives, who will have their displays in the Ron Cooke Hub atrium. After so long working remotely, this offers an excellent opportunity to connect with publishers, and look at newly published socio-legal books and journals.

I would like to extend my thanks, on behalf of the SLSA Board of Trustees, to all those involved in the organisation of the Conference. Special thanks must go to the local organising team from York Law School, Caroline Hunter, Jed Meers and Ellie Parnham for all of their hard work. I would also like to thank our sponsors whose continuing generosity enables us to support the work of the socio-legal community in many ways, and all those who lead and organise the streams and current topics at the conference. It takes a great deal of work from a great number of people to bring the SLSA conference together, and all of that work is greatly appreciated.

Finally, I wish to congratulate this year's prize winners. Professor Caroline Hunter, a stalwart of the SLSA community is the winner of this year's prize for contributions to the socio-legal community. Caroline has served, in the past, on the SLSA Executive, and has organised two SLSA conferences at York! Her rich and sophisticated socio-legal work on housing policy and law has made a significant impact on our discipline. We are delighted to have the opportunity to thank her for her contributions to socio-legal studies, and look forward to celebrating with her at the conference Gala Dinner. The winners of the Hart Socio-Legal Book Prize, the ECR Book Prize, the Socio-Legal Theory and History Book Prize and the Socio-Legal Article Prize remain under wraps for now, and will be announced at the conference dinner and prize-giving on Thursday evening. Irrespective of the ultimate winners of our prizes, I'm sure you will join me in congratulating all of the shortlisted authors on their fantastic socio-legal work.

As many of you will already know, this conference marks the end of my time as Chair of the SLSA. After 5 years leading this wonderful learned society, and 9 years on the Board, I am looking forward to passing the baton on to my successor, who will be elected at the SLSA Annual General Meeting (AGM). The AGM takes place on Thursday at 13.15 to– 14.15 in the Piazza lecture theatre, and in hybrid form – the zoom link has been circulated to members by email. I warmly encourage members to attend the AGM, vote for your new Chair and Trustees, and hear about the work of the Association in more detail. If you would like to know more about the SLSA, please visit our stall at the Conference, or speak to a member of the Board.

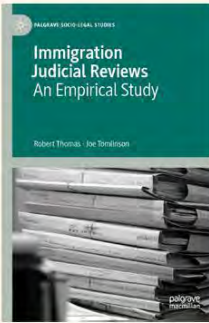

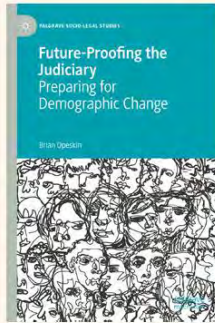

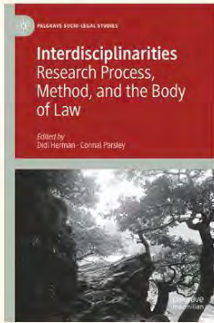

Finally, I hope you enjoy the Conference and look forward to meeting you all over the next three days.

Professor Rosie Harding

Chair of the SLSA

Cambridge Studies in Law and Society

Founded in 1997, Cambridge Studies in Law and Society is a hub for leading scholarship in socio-legal studies. Located at the intersection of law, the humanities, and the social sciences, it publishes empirically innovative and theoretically sophisticated work on law's manifestations in everyday life: from discourses to practices, and from institutions to cultures. The series editors have longstanding expertise in the interdisciplinary study of law, and welcome contributions that place legal phenomena in national, comparative, or international perspective.

Welcome from the Head of York Law School

Dear Colleagues,

I am delighted to welcome the Socio-Legal Studies Association back to York Law School and the Faculty of Social Sciences. The conference takes place in a very different environment from 2013, when we last played host. At a national and global level, we face challenges that raise fundamental questions about the nature, purpose, and capacity of law in our societies – from the implications of intellectual property for health equity highlighted by the global pandemic to the seeming powerlessness of international law in the face of a humanitarian tragedy in Ukraine. This year’s conference programme illustrates the depth of the socio-legal research community’s concern with these issues, and our deep-rooted commitment to placing their human dimensions at the heart of our work.

This conference provides an opportunity to recognise the contributions of two members of this community in particular. I am delighted that Professor Caroline Hunter will be receiving the prestigious SLSA “Prize for Contributions to the Socio-Legal Community”. All of us at York Law School are proud to see Caroline’s long, sustained, and deeply influential contributions to socio-legal scholarship and the community of scholars recognised by this prestigious award. This is a richly deserved recognition of a career that has done so much for the field.

The conference also marks Professor Rosie Harding’s last as Chair of the Socio-Legal Studies Association. Since being elected by members in 2017, she has overseen a record expansion in SLSA membership and in the profile of socio-legal research across the UK. Her success in ensuring a vibrant and diverse socio-legal academic community is reflected in the breadth and depth of research on display at this year’s conference.

We will look forward to toasting both of their successes and contributions at the conference dinner on Thursday evening.

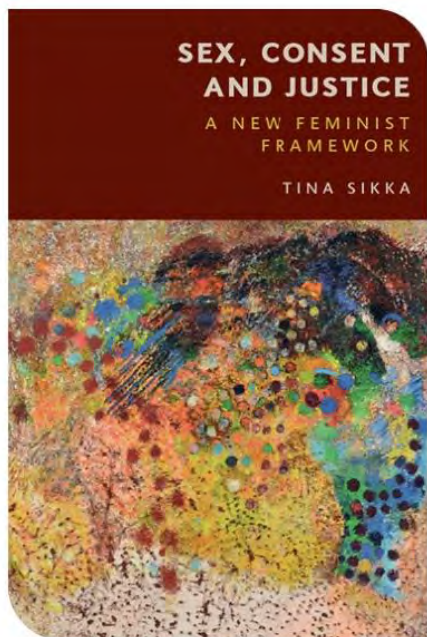

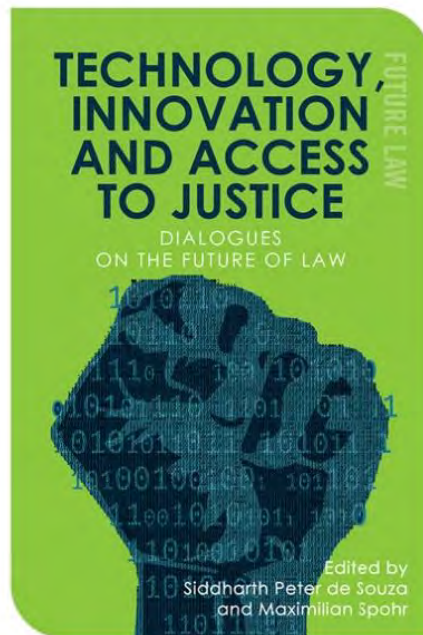

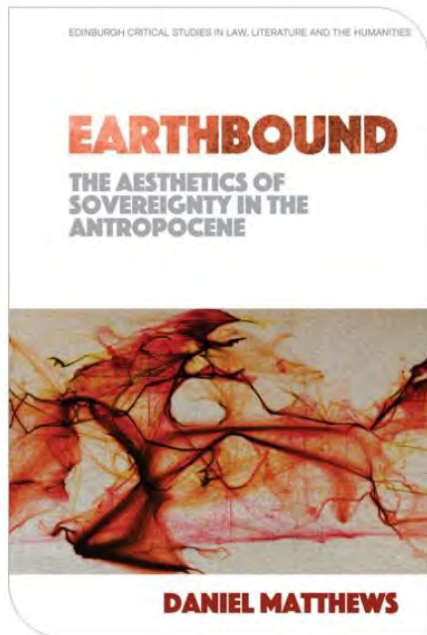

We have a packed agenda, but I hope in addition to exploring our campus (including its many, many wildfowl), you are able to explore the City of York. As well as the more obvious aesthetic pleasures of such a historic city, there are plenty of fantastic pubs, museums and other delights to enjoy. For those joining us virtually, I hope you are able to visit us in person when we are in more normal times.

I wish you an enjoyable, stimulating and memorable conference.

A call to take part in our survey:

Socio-legal Trajectories in Germany and the UK: Cultures, Actors and Institutions

A comparative research project on the formation and development of non-doctrinal study of law over the past 60 years (2021-2023).

This bi-national research project examines the contours and cultures in the field of law and society in Germany and the UK. It employs comparative and empirical methods alongside self-reflective socio-legal theory to undertake a comprehensive and critical mapping of a disputed and ever-evolving terrain, over the past 60 years. It will collect comparative data on the institutional landscape and history, academic biographies and identities, and enrich our understanding of key actors and events in the development of non-doctrinal legal study of law in the last decades.

Born in the spirit of 1968, law and society scholarship is best defined as ‘oppositional’ (Thomas et al.) in that it sets itself in distinction to doctrinal legal approaches, which have developed in diverse ways on the national level. This negative definition is the source of both its flexibility and inclusivity as well as its fluid contours, a situation that, while fertile, can lead to misunderstandings across legal- and academic cultures. Not only is “the doctrinal other” very different, but also the socio-political and institutional context in which socio-legal studies develop. This project traces the disciplinary divisions and similarities between German and UK approaches to research in law and society intending to identify gaps in national research agendas. Further, the project will investigate the causes and consequences of these diverging trajectories.

The SLSA York 2022 Plenary Speaker

Sir Geoffrey Vos, the Master of the Rolls

We are delighted to welcome Sir Geoffrey Vos, Master of the Rolls and Head of Civil Justice in England and Wales, to the SLSA conference this year. He is President of the Court of Appeal (Civil Division) and leads the delivery and development of civil justice across England and Wales.

Until 10 January 2021, he was Chancellor of the High Court, in charge of the Business and Property Courts of England and Wales. Between 2015 and 2016, he was President of the European Network of Councils for the Judiciary and has been active for many years on behalf of the judiciary of England and Wales in international relations in Europe and beyond. He is an Honorary Fellow of Gonville & Caius College, Cambridge. He is Keeper of the Black Books at Lincoln's Inn. He has had a lifelong interest in social mobility and was Chairman of the Social Mobility Foundation between 2008 and 2011.

The Master of Rolls will speaking to us about the challenges and opportunities of digitisation in the court system. The plenary session will take place on Thursday – ahead of the conference dinner – in the Piazza lecture theatre from 5.45pm to 7:15pm.

A huge thank you to all of our conference sponsors for this year's SLSA conference!

Do visit our exhibitors in the RCH atrium throughout the duration of the conference.

Conference Venue Map

The conference buildings:

All sessions are either in the Law School (“LMB”), the Ron Cooke Hub (“RCH”) or the Piazza (“PZA”). If you get lost, do ask one of the conference assistants to point you in the right direction!

The plenary and AGM on Thursday are both in the lecture theatre in the Piazza (“PZA/103”). The wine reception on Wednesday is in the RCH atrium.

Other spaces:

LMB/008: Internet café

Ron Cooke Hub atrium: Exhibitors and posters

There are three pods outside of the Ron Cooke Hub, on the lake. We’ve dedicated these spaces as:

RCH/040: A breast feeding space*

RCH/041: A Luggage store*

RCH/044: A Quiet space (where you can take a break from the hustle and bustle of the conference)

*Please ask someone on the registration desk for a key to access these.

Lunch!

Lunches and tea/coffees will be served in the Ron Cooke Hub Atrium (“RCH”) and in the Piazza restaurant (“PZA”).

If things are very busy at one location, you may be asked by conference assistants to head to the other location.

Conference Gala Dinner

The Conference Dinner is taking place on the other side of campus in the Roger Kirk Centre at James College. For those with dinner tickets, please check your emails for more information. They’ll be coaches to take delegates straight from the plenary session to the Conference Dinner venue on Thursday evening.
